Maths: Data Detectives

In our maths lessons we'll be spending time looking at data - how to represent and interpret it. Can you carry out some research of your own? You could write a short survey for your family and friends and then display your data creatively in a chart or pictogram. We can't wait to find out if chocolate ice cream really is everyone's favourite flavour or if chickens are the best pets ever!

History: Brave Bucephalus

In our history lessons we're going to be learning about Alexander the Great and his horse Bucephalus. There are many legends around the story of Alexander and his famous horse. Can you create a piece of art work, maybe a collage or sculpture to teach everyone about Bucephalus and why he's known as one of the most important horses in history? Create your 3D artwork and then add some facts about this amazing horse.

English: Chocolate Champions

In our Talk for Writing lessons we're going to be reading and writing about Charlie and the Chocolate Factory. We want to see or hear about your chocolate creations! You could research an amazing chocolate recipe and make it at home with your family. Maybe you can be a creative chef and design a new chocolate bar or chocolate ice cream sundae? Whatever you decide to do, make sure that you have lots of pictures and information to share with us so that we can find out all about your delicious chocolate creations!
