

Parents/Carers:

How can you help at home?

English:

Ensure that your child is reading a range of non-fiction and fiction texts – read together, identify the features of the texts together.

- Listen to your child read every day.
- Ask questions about their reading.
- Find different types of texts in your home. Talk about WHO they are written for / WHY they have been written / WHAT style has been used / WHEN the text style is used / WHERE these texts are found / HOW the texts have been organised.

Maths:

Many of the exam questions involve solving a problem and working in context.

Ask number questions about the world around you, involve relevant subject such as:

- Time: telling the time, differences in time, reading bus and train timetables, TV schedules, cooking times, 12hr and 24hr clocks etc.
- Measurement: estimating, measuring length, units, area, perimeter, capacity/ volume, mass/weight, temperature (positive/negative), angles etc.
- Money: shopping bills, change, tickets etc.
- Working out fractions and percentages of quantities.

What happens if my child is really unwell ?

It is perfectly normal to feel nervous prior to any exam and most of us do, however in the event that your child is seriously ill during the week of SATs :

- Ensure they stay tucked up in bed until they are better.
- If they recover within 5 school days of the test they miss, they can still sit the exam when they return.
- If they take longer than 5 school days to recover they will be given no SATs level for the subjects that they miss, but they will still be given teacher assessments.
