

What is Forest School?

According to the Forest School Association, Forest School is “an inspirational process that offers ALL learners regular opportunities to achieve and develop confidence and self-esteem, through hands on learning experiences in a local woodland or natural environment with trees.”

Forest School is a child-centered way of learning that aims to nurture children's physical, emotional and spiritual well-being and support their emotional and social development through various activities, experiences, play, exploration, crafts, and the learning and applying outdoor skills, all tailored to each child by themselves and the Forest School leaders.

Children will be encouraged to take and manage acceptable risk in activities that will help them to develop problem solving and personal responsibility in a safe, positive and supportive environment. Children will have the opportunity to develop skills and activities that interest them and to apply their skills and knowledge in meaningful ways over time while developing a positive relationship with the outdoor environment during this uncertain time when this has never been more important.

In Forest School, the nature of the activities will develop according to the interests and abilities of each child, creating achievable challenges in directions each child chooses to explore when they are at a stage when it is safe for them to do so. The kind of activities and experiences that your children may encounter in Forest School include:

- Willow weaving
- Shelter building
- Green wood crafts
- Knot tying
- Mud play
- Whittling
- Climbing
- Use a variety of saws and other tools
- Planting and plant care
- Toy making
- Nordic weaving
- Fire lighting
- Tree identification
- Forest art
- Cooking over a fire

Some of these things will take time and be things that we build up to but we also expect the children to go way beyond this list and even find activities and experiences that we have not thought of yet.

March Wood

Over the past months, we have been transforming the far end of our playing field into a fantastic woodland space for Forest School and other outdoor learning throughout the school, which we have named March Wood.

We have planted some semi-mature trees to kick-start our woodland, 420 broadleaf hardwood saplings and literally thousands of willows in the form of living willow domes and tunnels, living willow fences and plenty of willow thickets. This Autumn we will be planting another 315 broadleaf saplings on the South East side of March Wood and will be continuing the willow planting using cuttings from this year's massive growth since March.

In addition to the wonderful, seasonal willow domes (they will burst into leaf again next Spring), we have a secure Forest School resource store with a wood store attached, a fantastic, rustic sweet chestnut roundhouse with a firepit as our Forest School base and outside classroom, and a series of outdoor activity and craft areas such as the large geodesic dome (which will be covered in foliage in just a year or two). We even had a composting toilet built over the summer so we can stay in nature when nature calls.

March Wood is looking amazing. It has been an incredible transformation in such a short time and it is wonderful to see it changing day by day. We see more and more birds coming to visit, all manner of insects and if you blink you are sure to miss something.

March Wood is still just a baby woodland and we are really looking forward to your children experiencing its moment by moment, month by month and year by year journey with us, to become a dense and beautiful legacy woodland for the whole school to enjoy.

Staying warm and dry

Forest School is not just for Summer and sunny days. Forest School is an all year round experience including getting close up and personal with Britain's variable weather and changing seasons. As long as it is safe to be outside in the woods, we will be there!

"There's no such thing as bad weather, only inappropriate clothing."

- Alfred Wainwright, A Coast to Coast Walk

It is important that your children stay safe and healthy and a part of that is that they remain warm and dry even on the wettest days or in chilly winds. When your children are taking part in Forest School sessions (which you will be told about in advance) children are invited to wear home clothes to school for the day that are appropriate to the weather and being outside in nature.

Footwear

Wellington boots are a must when the ground is wet, and remember it does not have to be raining for the ground to be wet on the playing field or in March Wood. Almost any Autumn or Winter day will see the long grass thick with dew and feet will get wet very quickly.

Wellington boots do not keep feet warm so thick warm socks are a must on chilly days. Having cold feet is miserable so please make sure your child has suitable socks for a few hours outside whatever the weather.

When the ground will not be wet, children will still need strong, sensible shoes for running around and moving about on uneven surfaces.

Waterproof top layer

Whenever there is any risk of rain on Forest School session days, your children will need to have a good waterproof (and preferably breathable) jacket and trousers. As you know, when we get wet in cold weather, we quickly get a chill and your children's safety comes first in Forest School sessions.

Outdoor clothing suitable for the weather

Suitable clothing to be outdoors in the woods, playing and exploring are clothes such as long trousers and long sleeves tops that will give some protection from insects, scrapes, sun and wind. Clothing needs to be chosen according to the expected weather but we would always recommend long sleeves and remember that this is an outdoor learning adventure and not a fashion parade. Avoid dressing your children in their, or your, favourite clothes.

On hot, sunny days of course, children will need a different kind of protection such as a sun hat. You know how to dress your children but please help us to keep your children safe in Forest School by being aware of the days when they have Forest School sessions and sending them to school ready for the great outdoors.

Forest School lunch

We are very pleased to be able to extend the time your children get to be outside in March Wood by having our lunch out there with them, so on Forest School session days, your child will need to bring a packed lunch with them, unless they are entitled to a free-school meal in which case a lunch will be provided. Just as with any trips where they would have a packed lunch, this will need to be a healthy lunch.

Fresh drinking water will be available in March Wood until it gets so cold that the pipes freeze.
